MERIT RAISES
MUST RECEIVE
UNION "OKAY"

Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati Is Upheld By Supreme Court Decision

THEORY IS OUTLINED

Washington, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Employers who grant merit pay raises
without the consent of the union
representing their workers
may run afoul of the labor laws.
That is the effect of the supreme court's refusal to change a lower court ruling that merit pay
is part of the compulsory collective bargaining process. The high court declined yesterday to hear an employer's appeal.

So the decision of the sixth circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati stands. Under its broad terms
any employer violating the principle—that a bargaining union
must have a voice in merit raises
—runs the chance of being held
guilty of committing an unfair
labor practice.

Labor experts said today the principle is unlikely to have any great effect in mass production industries because they largely have abandoned merit raises.

Thus the greatest possible effect was seen in small plants and business firms, where merit increases are generally used to reward outstanding workers.

Under the lower court decision
handed down earlier this year
merit raises still may be given to workers represented by a union—
but only after the union has been told about them and has given its okay.

The theory behind that decision
is that the employer's obligation
under the National Labor Relations Act to bargain collectively
with representatives of its employees includes the duty of bargaining on individual wage increases as well.

"The labeling of a wage increase as a gratuity," the circuit court said, "does not obviate the fact that a gratuitous increase on the basis of merit does, in ac-
tualty, effectuate changes in rates
of pay and wages, which are by
the act made the subject of collective bargaining."

Replying to an argument that this may penalize the worker capable of winning better job terms
than the group, the circuit court
quoted an earlier supreme court ruling that:

"The workman is free, is he values his own bargaining position
more than that of a group, to vote against (union) representation;
but the majority rules, and if it
collectivizes the employment bargaining, individual advantages or favors will generally in practice be as a contribution to the collective result."

The decision was handed down in a case involving the J. H. Allison and Company, Chattanooga, Tenn., meat packers, and an AFL Meat Cutters Union. The company took the position that merit
raises are management's sole
right, and not a proper subject for collective bargaining.

NLRB attorneys said the case began under the Wagner act, but that amendments made in that law by the Taft-Hartley act do not change the basis for the decision.

Many Request War
Dead Be Returned

Detroit, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The army gets requests for return of war dead from two thirds of families who write in for information.

The other third ask for final
burial overseas.

This was reported today by Carl T. Noll, chief of the Army's War Dead Repatriation program,
who spoke at the National Funeral Directors Association convention.

Noll said as of Sept. 1, 1948, 63,311 bodies had been returned to next-of-kin. Latest army reports indicate that 275,637 remains have been recovered
throughout the world, of which 20,000 are unidentified.

There are an estimated 34,000
unlocated remains and 44,000 bodies that never will be recovered
because of circumstances surrounding the death, such as burial
at sea, he added.

Time Turns Back To 1908
In Bedford Springs Resort

Bedford Springs, Oct. 12.—(AP)—
It may have been 1948 everywhere else today but in the resort
town of Bedford Springs the date
was 1908.

Time had turned backward for the Glidden tour, with its caravan of antique automobiles and drivers with linen dusters and goggles.
The party of more than 200 drivers and passengers was celebrating the anniversary of the first Glidden tour of 40 years before.

First to arrive at the hotel
were Mr. and Mrs. George Hug-es of Bala-Cynwood, driving a 1911 Winton. Next was W. G. Mc-Gregor of Flint, Mich., but he was sporting a new model—a 1922
Rolls Royce Silver Ghost.

Today the visitors were sporting themselves at golf and tennis,
suitably clad in the costumes of 1908.

WITH THE CANDIDATES

DEWEY

En Route With Dewey to Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Gov.
Thomas E. Dewey charged today that the bipartisan foreign policy
has operated only when the Truman administration "has permitted it."

In his frankest public criticism
of the President's handling of foreign affairs, the Republican presidential nominee said that if he is elected in November he will carry out a "vigorous, competent and effective" drive for a bi-partisan
peace policy.

In an address prepared for delivery in Louisville, Ky., at 11:45
a. m., Dewey assailed what he called the clumsiness, the weakness and the wobbling of the present administration "in handling foreign affairs."

The New York governor dispelled any doubt that may have existed that he personally condemns—
although he declined to say so publicly—President Truman's abandoned plan to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow
to negotiate with Premier Stalin.

He said the administration's lack of success in winning the peace, in part, had been due to its
"failure to consult the Republicans before making sudden and vital policy commitments."

These have almost invariably got the country deeper into trouble," he added.

Although he conceded that
"many of the obstacles we have run into were beyond the control of any America," Dewey said that since the United Nations conference in San Francisco two-party cooperation "has operated whenever the administration has permitted it."

Dewey said that unless the Republicans had been giving "full cooperation" to the Democratic administration, we should have no
strength in the present grave
meetings of the United Nations."

Dewey sailed into the President
as he has not done before in the present campaign.

To a whistling, howling crowd
that overflowed the 1,000-seat
Hunt hall at Pittsburgh last night—his most enthusiastic audience of this second campaign trip
—Dewey defended the Taft-Hartley act.

He acknowledged, however, that

MINERS AFTER

Chairman of Convention
Scale Committee Declines to Disclose Proposals in Advance

CONVENTION IS OVER

Cincinnati, Oct. 12.—(AP)—John
L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers today extended a peace
offer to the rest of the American Labor movement, calling for "unity, harmony and cooperation."

Lewis, urging adoption of the resolution, asked other labor leaders to "put aside their contentions
and grievances" and line up together.

The UMW president said we was
"strongly in favor" of a resolution,
offered by Vice President Thomas Kennedy, Lewis reviewed his own efforts to bring about peace between the CIO in 1933 and again as spokesman for an AFL committee in 1947.

Kennedy offered another resolution declaring support for the International Typographical Union,
locked in conflict with the Taft-Hartley's ban on the closed shop.

Scale committee proposals, including those for a shorter work
at higher pay as part of the union's 1949 contract, were before the convention as it drew to a close.

The 3,000 delegates, on the way
home after a 10-day convention,
adopted a series of resolutions
aimed at protecting union members against the unemployment of the 1930's.

Resolutions from local unions
called for every possible bargaining point for next year's contract.
The major issues were the reduced work week and higher welfare royalty.

The miners now work 40 hours.
The union collects 20 cents a ton
as a royalty for the health and welfare fund, first established in 1946.

Delegates yesterday voted to boost the miners' dues from an average of $2 a month to a flat $4. They also boosted the fee for joining the union from $10 to $50.

The dues increase for the 400,000
soft coal miners and 80,000 Pennsylvania anthracite diggers would total approximately $1,000,000 a month.

The bumps in dues and initiation
fees were voted so that the UMW's
treasury might be lined with additional funds for possible new strike
troubles and fines.

Lewis warned the delegates they should prepare for the future by building a strong reserve.

NEW INCOME TAX IS CONTESTED IN COURT

Williamsport, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A citizens committee, angered at a new school tax of one per cent on income, circulated petitions here
today, urging repeal of the state's 1947 local tax law.

Paul G. Kroff, of DuBoistown, a leader of the committee, said the petition will be circulated throughout Lycoming county, and when signed will be submitted to state legislators from the area for consideration.

The Williamsport school board
levied the one per cent tax in part to meet the needs of the Lycoming and 17 other nearby
school districts under a mutual arrangement.

The tax was levied under provisions of the 1947 law which permits political subdivisions to tax anything not already taxed by the commonwealth.

DEMOCRATIC RANKS
SPLIT IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A split in Democratic leadership,
stemming from the recent grand jury rackets investigation, today
kept City hall humming with speculation.

Councilman Joseph A. McArdie
declared at a council meeting yesterday that Mayor David L. Lawrence was guilty of "cheap political chicanery." Lawrence refused to comment but released correspondence from church leaders
praising his actions.

McArdie lauded the record of former Police Inspector John J.
Dean, ousted by Lawrence after the police official was criticized by the grand jury. McArdie said it was unfair to dismiss Dean
when five other inspectors were mentioned adversely by the jury.

The councilman said the mayor
was responsible for ending gambling rackets and declared Lawrence had committed an "inexcusable dereliction of duty."

TAKES POLITICAL STAND

Erie, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Erie
Dispatch announced yesterday
when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey visited the city, that it would support
Dewey and his running-mate, Gov.
Earl Warren, in the November election. The independent paper declared in an editorial: "We want fair dealings in Washington, prosperity in the United States, and peace in the world, which can only be brought about by young and aggressive leadership in Washington."

DIES IN COLLISION

Altoona, Oct. 12.—(AP)—James
V. Henry, 16, of near Hollidaysburg, was killed in a collision between his motorcycle and a truck
yesterday at Altoona intersection.

Stirring Talk By Rector Is Highlight of First Meeting
Of Chest Campaign Workers

Sparked by a short but stimulating talk by Beecher M. Rutledge of Trinity Episcopal church, workers on the Community Chest went out last night with a determination that seems certain to see the Chest Fund of $51,500 raised in the allotted time.

Rev. Rutledge reviewed the sums set aside for each of the 10 participating organizations and showed in a succinct manner how well
each agency was spending the money allotted by the Chest.

"There's a public relations job to do in every community," the speaker said, "and this applies to Warren the same as any other town." And he went on to add that there has been no increase in the goal of the nine regular Chest agencies this year despite increased costs of everything having to do with living. The only added sum is $1,000 for the USO, the worldwide organization that looks after our boys and girls in the Service.

Pointing out that the over-all national cost of administration and expense is but 6% of the national Chest fund, Mr. Rutledge added that in Warren the cost is considerably less than this 6%. He went on to say that for the one month's intensive work, of which this campaign is part, there are 12 full

Man 76 Makes His First 'Chute Jump

Fosston, Minn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—
The hero of the ice cream soda set in this tiny Minnesota town today was Walter Morgan, 76, who may be the oldest man ever to make a parachute jump.

Morgan achieved what he described as a lifetime ambition
when he jumped yesterday from 10,000 feet. His wife and children were in the row of 2,000—600
more than the town's entire population—that left the shop and office of Fosston to watch him
jump.

Himself the father of six, Morgan said he wanted to "show the kids I could do it." Afterward he said warningly "they'll have a hard time keeping me on the ground now."

His pilot, Don Kruse, Minneapolis, praised the ex-farmer's cool
headedness. "When he landed,"
said the pilot, "he still had the rip-cord. Lots of professional jumpers drop it—and the thing is worth $6."

Music Boosters Entertained
By Junior High School Band

An unusually large turnout greeted the newly-elected officers of the Warren School Music Boosters Club at the first fall meeting held last evening in the Beatty Junior High School auditorium.

The session was opened with an informal program played by the Beatty Junior High Band, directed by Harry Summers and attired in their new "uniforms," blue jeans and white shirts.

The five numbers played by the band showed that amazing progress has been made since the group's last appearance before the Boosters and provided full justification for continuance of the summer band and orchestra school which has been a Booster project for several years.

The selections chosen were: Activity March, Military Escort
March, a Russian hymn-chorale, I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now, and Mutual March.

Later in the evening, Mr. Summers paid the young band members
the sincere compliment of "the hardest working group I've ever had" and stated he expects great things of it by the end of the term.

The business session was opened by Richard C. Smith, with reports
by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs.
Harry Hutchings, covering the two-year term of the retiring officers. Mr. Smith also read the report of the auditing committee,
Elmer T. Lundahl and Paul E.
Harrington.

He then turned the meeting over to the new president, Lyle N.
Schuler, with the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. C. Fuelhart, assuming her duties at the same time.
The new vice president, William Wehner, was presented to the group and minutes showed Mr.
Smith and Mrs. Hutchings added to the board of directors.

Mr. Schuler's initial report included the Booster's sponsoring of the Dragon Band in the Young Men's Homecoming Parade this summer.

The membership voted payment
of the Boosters share in financing
the summer band school; guaran-

Secretary Marshall Arrives
In Paris and Takes Over
As Behind-the-Scenes
Director

AWAIT KREMLIN REPLY

Paris, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined today in a move to speed up Security Council action on the Berlin crisis.

This coincided with Secretary of State Marshall's return by air
from Washington talks with President Truman.

The three big western powers,
despairing of mediation efforts by the so-called "Little Six" on the United Nations Security Council,
are drafting a resolution for firm
action to lift the Berlin blockade,
western sources said.

Marshall did not appear at the U. N. assembly headquarters immediately on his arrival in Paris,
but he too, over again as behind
the scenes director of American policy in the Berlin dispute.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin,
meanwhile, told the U. N. assembly's political committee that
"wreck and destroy" has become the Soviet battle cry in the world today. He cited a number of quotations which he said indicated
the Soviet Union is guilty of duplicity.

Western sources said the "Little Six" attempts to patch up the east-west differences over Berlin remained fruitless after almost a week of go-between work.

Austin repeatedly called on Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky to deny declarations of Soviet and other Communist leaders that peace between the Soviet Union and the capitalist world is impossible.

As he spoke the western powers, convinced mediation efforts
were futile, pressed for a showdown in the Security Council on their demand that Russia raise the blockade of Berlin, U. N. sources said. Britain, France and the United States want a council session tomorrow or Thursday, feeling the time for action has arrived.

The Kremlin's answer to efforts of the so-called neutral states to mediate in the Berlin crisis still is awaited. Some western sources said there would have been some hope of a compromise if a Russian answer was conciliatory in tone.

As Austin began quoting from Lenin and other Communist sources, Vishinsky and Ukrainian delegate Dimitri Manulsky took cop-ious notes.

Vishinsky demanded the floor
when Austin had finished but agreed to lead off the speakers at this afternoon's session. The committee then recessed for lunch.

Secretary of the State Marshall returned to Paris from talks with President Truman on the Berlin
crisis. Marshall, who was accompanied by ECA Administrator
Paul Hoffman and W. Bedell Smith,
U. S. Ambassador to Moscow, went immediately to the American embassy residence.

Delegates of the three western powers had a long and stiff last night, and were reported to have agreed to stand firm in seeing through their case before the Security Council. They have repeated they will not negotiate with the Russians about Germany or Berlin
while the blockade remains or
while the Soviets employ any sort

yesterday in Titusville hospital.

Deputy Coroner C. M. Sonne said
an inquest would be held, probably

Loud Demonstration Given
Indians In Cleveland Today

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Baseball happy Clevelanders staged the biggest and loudest demonstration
in the city's history today as the World Champion Indians were welcomed back to Boston.

The entire city let go with a bombardment of music, flowers,
cheers and applause as the Indians
were driven up historic Euclid Avenue from the terminal in Public Square to University Circle, a 10-mile route.

The avenue was strewn with roses and confetti, early morning
traffic was tied in a happy, howling knot of humanity.

Traffic Commissioner John R.
Sammon said it was the biggest celebration he could remember. He estimated the crowd that jammed
into Public Square at 100,000 and said at least another 50,000 lined
the street as the motorcade moved out the avenue.

Mayor Thomas A. Burke, Tribe
Manager Lou Boudreau and his wife, Della, and Club President Bill Veck were seated in the first open car and drew the loudest
cheers.

Sport-shirted Veck gave his
flashiest, widest grin as he duck-ed confetti, candy kisses and flowers.

People literally hung out the windows of office buildings and thousands of balloons floated
down from many of the taller structures.

Business was at a standstill and
school children forgot their studies
and classrooms. Parochial school children had the day off in observance of Columbus Day and took advantage of it. Public schools were not closed officially but teachers and principals didn't interfere with any pupils who wanted to see the parade.

Warren Man Posts Bail In Check Case

Kenneth L. O'Day was released from Montour County jail yesterday an associate said, after he had posted $12,000 bail on a charge of passing nearly $10,000 in worthless checks.

The associate said O'Day's bail originally had been set at $8,000 but was upped to $12,000 when the hearing, postponed from an earlier date, was held before Justice of the Peace Austin H. Klase at Danville. Klase ordered O'Day committed to jail in default of bail, but he obtained his release several hours later when arrangements were made to meet the increased bond.

Complaint against O'Day was lodged by Louis Furrmanky, Allentown; Anthony Apichell of Shamokin; Samuel H. Brown of Jersey Shore; and Michael J. Corasse, of Plains.

They testified O'Day gave them worthless checks—drawn on the Warren National Bank—as payment for cars at an auction at the Danville Livestock Market on June 30. The checks were in the sums of $2,175, $2,500, $2,150, and $3,100, the men testified. They added that O'Day then took possession of the cars.

SCHOOL SUCCESSFUL

The borough and county-wide school of instruction held in Grace church Monday afternoon and evening under the sponsorship of the Community and County PTA Councils proved most helpful, according to those in charge and attendance figures reached a very satisfactory high. A more detailed account of the sessions will be published in these columns on Wednesday.

Mr. Hummerich will be remembered as one of Warren's popular bus drivers and was also employed on the bus line from Buffalo to Pittsburgh.

AMUSEMENTS

"A DATE WITH JUDY" AT LIBRARY TODAY ONLY

There will be plenty of music to accompany your date for those who see M-G-M's scintillating new technicolor musical, "A Date With Judy," today only at the Library Theatre.

The songs and dances are divided among a stellar cast, including Wallace Beery, Jane Powell, Elizabeth Taylor, Carmen Miranda, Xavier Cugat and his orchestra and Robert Stack.

Beery steals the comedy highlight with his dancing of a rumba with the Latin charmer, Carmen Miranda, with Miss Miranda also seen in three numbers accompanied by Xavier Cugat and his band—"Cucanto Le Gusto," "Cooking With Glass" and "Vamo A Rumbia."

Jane Powell and Elizabeth Taylor give their own versions of a Jimmy McHugh-Harold Adamson song, called "It's a Most Unusual Day"; Miss Powell and Scotty Beckett do a song-and-dance routine to "I'm Strictly on the Corny Side," and other of Miss Powell's songs include "Judy," the Na-talie Harris-Brown-Arthur Freed hit, "Temptation"; "Through the Years," by Vincent Youmans and Eddie Heyman; "Love Is Where You Find It" by Nacio Herb Brown and Earl Brent; and "Home, Sweet Home," in which she is joined by Selena Royle and little Jerry Hunter.

The new musical was produced by Joe Pasternak and was directed by Richard Thorpe, the team that scored with "This Time For Keeps" and "On An Island With You."

LINCOLN UNIT TO SPONSOR TROOP

There was a large attendance for the regular meeting of the Lincoln PTA at Clarendon Heights, when it was voted to sponsor a Boy Scout Troop, to have a bake sale this month and a rummage sale in November. Regrets were also expressed that Mrs. Ann Shawkey was unable to be present because of illness, and it is reported the unit is sending her a gift. Mrs. Klenck's room received the book for the largest attendance.

At the close of the business meeting, the teachers were escorted to a very attractive table and all members enjoyed a delicious lunch, with Miss Kennedy pouring.

ing. Joyce Jackson appeared in a Halloween costume and greeted the teachers with an original song. For an encore, she sang "Take Me Out to the Ball Game." Her little act was much enjoyed by the entire group. Mr. Hunter showed two movies, "We Need No Help," sponsored by the veterans, and Abbott and Costello in "No More Indians, Please."

STARBRICK UNIT HAS CAFETERIA REPORT

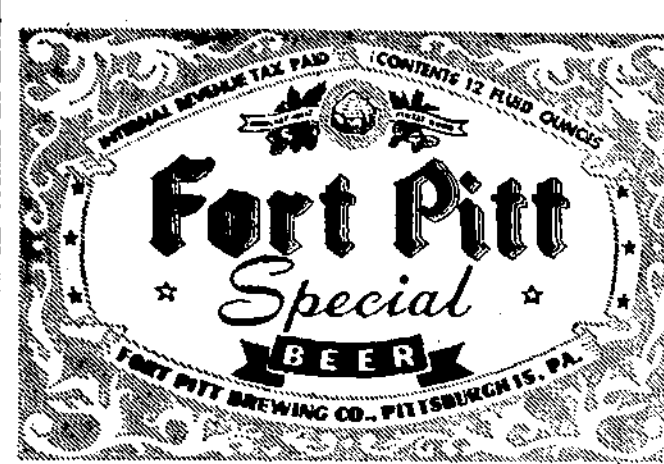

The October meeting of the Starbrick PTA was opened by Mrs. Pearl Huckabone leading in prayer. Mrs. Lewis Kevark, finance chairman, reported Mrs. Ben Huckabone was helping on her committee and a bake sale has been planned for Friday morning, October 22, in the Peneclec building in Warren. The officers, Mrs. Calvin Buerkle, Mrs. Howard Hillard and Mrs. Harold Sigworth, were elected as delegates to attend the PTA School of Instruction being held at Grace Methodist church. Mrs. Firth, principal of the school and her husband, are also being sent as guests of the unit.

Mrs. Albert Sidon reported on the school cafeteria, showing the following food was harvested from the PTA garden and canned by women of the unit: 176 quarts of tomatoes, 34 quarts lima beans, 4 bushels onions, One bushel of tomatoes, donated by Mrs. Pearl Huckabone, was also canned. Mrs. Keller's room won the attendance prize.

At the close of the business session, the Four J's, Judy Toner, Johanna Huckabone, Jimmy Sigworth and Junior Sidon, sang two numbers, "Love Somebody" and "Every Day I Love You Just a Little Bit More." They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Forrest Arnold. H. L. Blair, Warren county superintendent of schools, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Our School Taxes and How They Are Spent." Refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Theron Easterbrook, Mrs. Arthur McCain and Mrs. Harold McKillip.

Announcement is made that the next executive meeting will be held October 23 at the home of Mrs. Ralph Olson.

Winds of 25 to 34 miles per hour are called moderate gales.

UN COULD HELP BUILD UNITY

There probably were undertones of domestic politics in South Africa's half-threat to resign from the United Nations. White South Africans generally seem to resent UN "interference" in their treatment of the country's Indian minority, which they hold to be an internal problem. Also the present South African government is strongly isolationist, and may be trying to underline its complete break with former Premier Smuts' attitude and policy.

Nevertheless, Delegate Louw's speech must have received some sympathetic attention. He said that the last two years' record did not give grounds for optimism toward the UN's future. He criticized the continual dissension and mutual distrust in the Security Council. He spoke of the UN's "uninspiring performances," and described what he feels is the world's attitude toward the organization with such words as disillusionment, frustration and exasperation.

Nor were Mr. Louw's the only critical words that the General Assembly heard on the day that he spoke. A representative of Burma referred to the UN as the "disunited Nations." A Turkish delegate said the last year's record was far from satisfactory. Speakers from China and Uruguay expressed similar sentiments.

Earlier Assembly sessions have been stormy, but there has been little criticism of the UN itself. The delegates, especially those of the smaller nations, proceeded with a sort of desperate optimism that amounted at times to self-deception. But then, as always, the tension of the dispute between Russia and the west was ominously present.

The tension has increased until even the etiquette of diplomacy cannot let it be ignored any longer. A frank admission of its presence and effect may be healthier than the surface politeness and high hopes of former sessions.

The fact has to be faced that the cold war cannot be ended in the UN. The General Assembly can do nothing but recommend, and the conflict between the United States and Russia has the Security Council stymied. At the same time, it is clear that the UN cannot begin to exercise its primary function of keeping the peace until the cold war is settled by outside agreement.

Yet it does not seem that any good can come from the resignation of South Africa or any other discouraged member. It would be a tremendous blow if Russia or any other big power should quit the UN in anger because its nationalistic aims were thwarted. But even such a blow might weld the remaining members more solidly together. If, however one of the smaller nations should quit in despair, the effect could conceivably be as damaging. It might impel others to say "What's the use?" and walk out by the dozens.

Even a restricted, almost impotent United Nations is better than none. Perhaps its function will be reduced to that of a sort of international town meeting. But frank discussion in an open forum, however bitter or unrewarding, will help prevent a complete division of the world by an iron curtain of hostility and secrecy.

AGGRAVATING THE COMPLAINT

In his speech before the United Mine Workers convention, John L. Lewis said—among a great many other things—that we are exporting a lot of merchandise in short domestic supply to Europe under the Marshall Plan. Mr. Lewis figures that we are building up European markets at the expense of our own, and that some day Europe may drive us out of practically all the markets of the world.

Mr. Lewis also urged American workers to apply unremitting pressure for higher pay, a shorter work week and other concessions.

We assume that Mr. Lewis knows that this is a time of high prices, virtually no unemployment, and an unsatisfied demand for considerable consumer goods. We can't see how, under those circumstances, his program of more money for less production is going to help solve the export situation that he is complaining about.

If King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan continues to oppose the new Arab League government for Palestine, the chances of an early peace there should be brighter. The Arabs, united, have so far come off second best in their war with Israel. Divided, and perhaps fighting among themselves, their cause would be even less hopeful—a fact that the Arabs themselves must realize.

American cooking is full of surprises, says an English writer. He must eat in the same hash house we do.

The success doesn't spend all he makes and the failure doesn't make all he spends.

There's One Part of the Speech We Never Hear

"BUT HOW I DON'T KNOW!"

Here And There

Ed C. Lowrey, editor of the Times-Mirror, sends this dispatch written over the week and from the World Series Press Headquarters in the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland.

Around press headquarters at World Series times is one of the most thrilling and interesting experiences any newspaper man could possibly have—there is absolutely nothing that can anywhere compare with it. Here in Cleveland, Frank Gibbons and the extraordinary showmanship of Bill Veck, (whom I had the pleasure of meeting and chatting with Friday afternoon), is doing a marvelous job. Seemingly nothing has been left undone to provide for the needs and pleasures of the some 600 newspapermen who have credentials to this dramatic series. It would be impossible to describe the manner in which they have provided for the news men. That will have to come later. Briefly, at this press headquarters the World Series label button and badge which have been provided all news men, seem to be the open sesame for almost everything, including the vast press facilities, eats, refreshments, limousine service to points in the city, including transportation to and from the stadium. A mammoth spread is being served at all hours in the adjoining Parlor B, where your press card gives one access at any time for any quantity of food. There are at a quick count, over 100 typewriters in this room, Western Union operators, stenographers, phones, and every needed facility. Courteous attendants are on every hand looking after the comfort and needs of the writers. In this press headquarters, however, you seem to be far removed from the excitement and glamour of the World Series excitement that has gripped the city. Here, it resembles very much a public library. Men may be standing around in groups chatting quietly, but always, it seems, about the business at hand—That of getting news stories back to the home town folks. Downstairs, in the lobby, however, one never knows just what experiences await them. For instance, my running into Harold Look, formerly of Warren, and this morning, brushing past Bill Veck, standing at the foot of the stairs leading to press headquarters, and very firmly but pleasantly declining to get into the business of autographing press cards. The World Series ticket counter in the lobby is one of the busiest places in this large hotel at the moment. As I squeezed through the crowd a half hour ago, prospect fans, or probable scalpers, were packed so tightly around the counter, it was almost impossible to worm through. Speaking of scalpers—It is my firm conviction, after being in the stands Thursday, the first Cleveland game, they took a licking, and plenty. It appeared from a survey that at least 10,000 seats were empty, and some of them in blocks that would surprise the Warren fans. The press section is in the second tier, right back of home plate. Each writer is furnished with desk space, and retains the same seat through the series. I happen to be sitting between a writer from Wichita, Kansas, and another from Worcester, Mass., both congenial men. Speaking of writers coming to the Series from far-off places, I discovered Thursday that both my associates were without pencils. I loaned the Massachusetts man one of John Fenstermacher's souvenir pencils given at the opening dinner of the Penelec Co., and incidentally he made certain that it was returned to me. This other man from Kansas used a souvenir pen given each press correspondent upon his arrival. Well, it is about twelve noon, and soon time to hop one of Bill Veck's special limousines for the Stadium. There will be more later.

Use Your Vote In '48

Holding its October dinner-meeting this evening, the Warren Business and Professional Women's Club will call particular attention to the 21st anniversary of National Business Women's Week, October 10-16, in which women all over the land will be urged to turn out en masse in November and exercise the voting privilege accorded them by the amendment to the constitution passed in 1919.

Six goals have been adopted by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs for 1948, aims which set new sights for the advancement of women in business and the professions: 1. To place better qualified men and women in governmental posts of responsibility. 2. To win equal pay for comparable work for all. 3. To encourage workers to realize the dignity and importance of work as an incentive to efficiency and greater production. 4. To ensure training of both men and women for family and community life. 5. To strengthen and make effective the United Nations. 6. To work toward a stable and healthy world economy.

In a letter to Dr. K. Frances Scott, newly elected president of the National Federation, President Harry Truman has praised selection of the 1948 slogan, "Use Your Vote in '48" and accorded it his hearty endorsement. Our country will continue as a bulwark of democracy only through forthright majority rule, and such rule is a reality only when every citizen votes," the chief executive writes.

Mr. and Mrs. Royard L. Gates, who were married in Grove City on September 8, have returned from a wedding trip through eastern Pennsylvania and are at home to friends in Grove City RD 3.

The double ring ceremony took place at 7:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church of Grove City, with the Rev. Jack Shaffer, pastor, officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Frank Soday, of El Dorado, Ark., wore a gown fashioned with long sleeves and sweetheart neckline in a fitted bodice, and full skirt with train. Her fingertip veil of illusion net fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a white Bible with corsage of white roses and pompoms.

Miss Mary Soday, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a frock of yellow marquisette and carried a colonial bouquet. Bridesmaids Vonnice DeMarsh and Joan Bestwick, both of Grove City, wore yellow and black chiffon and blue taffeta, respectively. Each had a colonial bouquet of roses. Train bearers were nieces of the bride, Mary and Betsy Soday, Grove City, wearing white frocks and having pink rosebud corsages.

Serving as best man for his brother was Raymond Gates, Grand Valley, and ushers were Harry J. Soday, Grove City, and Donald Slaughterhaupt, Grand Valley.

An all-white wedding was an event of September 11 in Corry, when Miss Alvina Victoria Antal and Gerald Henderson Duell were married in a double ring ceremony read at 10 a. m. in St. Thomas' Catholic church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casper A. Antal, 58 Brook street, Corry, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald T. Duell, 156 Wright street, Corry, are Mr. Duell's parents.

The Rev. John DeSanti performed the nuptial high mass in the presence of many relatives and friends, the church choir singing the mass. Mrs. James Wharton played a recital of appropriate selections and Miss Theresa Bogniak, soloist, sang "Ave Maria" and "Mother Dear, O Pray For Me." Red and white gladioli were arranged on the altar and ferns and palms were used in additional decoration of the church.

Mr. Antal gave his daughter in marriage. She was beautifully gowned in white slipper satin, princess style, with sweetheart neckline embroidered with white beads and seed pearls, leg o' mutton sleeves, pointed at the wrist, and voluminous skirt with cathedral train. Her fingertip length veil was edged with lace and cascaded from a crown embroidered with white beads and pearls to match her gown. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom, and her bouquet of white rosebuds and pompoms had a ribbon shower.

Miss Marian Antal, as maid of honor for her sister, wore a gown of white taffeta fashioned with sweetheart neckline about a net yoke, puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and a full skirt. She wore long taffeta mitts and as a headpiece a band of white flowers with shoulder length veil of net. Her arm bouquet was of red roses.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Jack Zeres, of Warren, and Mrs. John Misick, of Corry, appeared in gowns similar to that of the maid of honor. They also had long mitts, wore bands of flowers in their hair and carried a basket of red and white carnations. Little Helen Antal, Youngsville, was flower girl for her aunt. She wore a white taffeta gown, short veil and flowers in her hair, and carried a basket of red carnations and white asters.

Vernon Antal, Youngsville, was best man and ushers were Harold Duell, twin brother of the bridegroom, and Cephus Ayers.

At 12:30 p. m., a wedding breakfast was served the bridal party and members of the immediate families in the main dining room of the Hotel Corry. There were places for 30 and tables were arranged with red and white sweet peas and tapers, and a five-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom.

Seventy guests were entertained at the Antal home for the reception held from three until six o'clock. Mrs. Joseph Spear and Mrs. Homer Slaughter presided and sides were Miss Vernon Antal and Mrs. Anthony Kasaback, Sheffield. Guests were from Clifton, N. J.; Youngsville, Pittsfield, Erie, Russell, Warren, and Meadville.

Mr. and Mrs. Duell left for a week's honeymoon in Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va., the bride wearing a military blue suit with gold and gray accessories and a white rose and pompom corsage. Upon their return, they will reside at 58 Brook street, Corry.

Begin Ticket Sale For Club Entertainment

Tickets for one of the outstanding social events of the fall season have been placed on sale at the B. and B. Smoke Shop, the Home-Spun Inn, Lewis Market and the Metzger-Wright store.

The event is the appearance here on Wednesday, October 20, of the talented young Broadway actress, Ruth Enders, in her "Dramatic Miniatures," sponsored by the Woman's Club.

Tickets may also be had by calling the clubhouse or from any of the following members of the club's Entertainment committee:

Mrs. W. C. Fuchhart, Mrs. D. W. Crossett, Jr., Mrs. S. M. McClure, Mrs. J. C. Allen, Mrs. J. H. Goldstein, Mrs. Harriett Williams, Mrs. Lyle Schuler, Mrs. William Cannon, Mrs. H. F. Clawson, Mrs. J. R. Coker, Mrs. Robert Marlin, Mrs. Ernest Hagenlocher, Mrs. Carl L. Hultberg, Mrs. Iyle Knapp, Mrs. C. L. Thompson, Mrs. E. M. Branch, Mrs. Henry Walker, Mrs. Robert Gibb, Mrs. H. L. Culbertson, Mrs. Mildred Blair, Mrs. Harold Blair, Mrs. J. R. Suprenant, Mrs. W. M. Cashman, Mrs. A. Follmer Yerg and Mrs. M. A. Connelly.

Miss Enders' dramatic sketches from famous plays provide a great adventure in make-believe. So deft is her imaginative ability that she peoples the stage with characters in addition to the one she is portraying. Authentic costumes sustain the imagery. Her programs provide delightfully varied entertainment. Vivid bits of comedy and moving dramatic scenes are marked with interludes of fantasy. Miss Enders depicts such diverse personalities as the consecrated Saint Joan, the sophisticated Lorraine Bachelier, the mischievous Tom Sawyer. Each part is portrayed with the subtlety of infection, accent and gesture which result from masterly dramatic technique.

This evening of entertainment as at the Woman's Club on Wednesday, October 20, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

"Oil Progress Day" Recalls Industry's "Pot Still" Days

One day some ninety-odd years ago a tall, stoop-shouldered cana boat man named Samuel M. Kier was stirring a sticky, evil-smelling brew in an iron kettle which squatted on a stove in the cellar of a shack just outside the city limits of Pittsburgh. The mess on the stove was a sample of Kier's Rock Oil, a patent medicine in which Sam had invested heavily but which tasted so vile that few people would buy it. Kier was trying to salvage his investment by seeing what would happen if he ran the unsavory stuff through a primitive still.

As the petroleum began to boil vigorously, Kier slapped a homemade "worm" on top of the kettle. A dribble of colorless liquid ran out of the still. He touched a match to it and the liquid burned slowly. Inspired, he put some of it in an empty whale oil lamp. The lamp glowed brighter than it ever had before!

That was how Sam Kier discovered kerosene and became America's first petroleum refiner. The petroleum industry, which is paying tribute to Sam Kier, to all of his successors and to the pioneering spirit of the American people as a whole during the observance of "Oil Progress Day" on October 14, has come a fabulously long way since those ante-bellum years.

Instead of a handful of struggling companies, the industry now consists of 54,000 competitive firms. Instead of one well—that brought in by Colonel E. L. Drake at Titusville, Pa., in the summer of 1859—oil companies have drilled around 1,200,000 wells and oil is produced in 25 states. Some 428,000 of these wells are producing oil today. In-

In February, 1918, he enlisted in the armed forces and served with the famous Fifth regiment of the U. S. marines. During active service in Europe, Mr. Miller lost his leg from a shell explosion.

For outstanding duty and courage displayed on the field of battle, he was awarded the distinguished service cross and the U. S. navy cross, twice, the victory medal with four citations and four clasps. The federal government also presented him with the Croix de Guerre.

Following his discharge from the service on May 19, 1919, he owned and operated a drug store in Eau Claire until 1933.

From 1921 until 1925 he served as Butler county treasurer.

In 1933, he retired from active employment and moved to Forest county, where he had made his home since.

months of the year when the Chest and its agencies is hard at work in the interests of the people of Warren and Warren County.

He urged the workers present to approach each of their prospects with care and consideration adding that asking for money has a serious side, stating that money alone is an insignificant symbol.

"By itself it can do no harm and no good lying in pocket or bank. But it is waiting for the imprint of a personality which alone can determine the end towards which its latent powers can be directed. On it, he concluded, are the marks of greed or generosity; of selfishness or charity."

"Give it, he pleaded, the opportunity to enter the stream of sacrificial service—acceptable to God because it helps man."

Rev. Rutledge prefaced his remarks by quoting from excerpts of a broadcast sponsored by the Mutual Broadcasting Company in which Henry Ford II, Edward Gushes, President of the National Community Chest, and other prominent citizens of Detroit participated. All speakers stressed the theme that it costs more to do the same work today than it did two years ago.

Holger N. Elmquist, chairman of the Warren Community Chest, presided at last night's kick-off meeting. He introduced the various speakers. Rev. Wayne Furman, of the First Methodist church delivered the invocation; prior to which the Chest workers were entertained by the Warren High School band under the direction of Harry Summers.

In conclusion, Mr. Elmquist called upon Henry Candy campaign director, who is conducting the 10th Community Chest campaign in Warren. Mr. Candy reminded those present that every Chest campaign has gone over the top and that this one should be no exception. But, he warned, each of you women and men must follow the rules and complete your visitations as thoroughly and efficiently as possible. He urged that all the workers be ready to make a report as possible in time for the first report meeting which will be held tomorrow night at the Y.W.C.A. at 7:30.

Farmer First To Qualify In Bucks County

Philadelphia, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The first man in the Philadelphia area to qualify for the peacetime draft—25-year old Benjamin F. Carter—got up at dawn today to do the work that may keep him out of the armed forces.

Carter, a Bucks county farmer who lives at Woodside, Pa., told a reporter he doesn't care much whether he dons a uniform or gets an occupational deferment as he did during World War II.

"If they want me," Carter said, "I'll go without kicking."

Carter was one of only three peacetime draftees handed down by the War Relocation Authority at the Schuylkill arsenal. It was the first group to be screened here under the new Selective Service Act.

Of the three eligibles only Carter declined to seek deferment but he said his father, hard-pressed for farm help, "may try to get me deferred again."

The other two names withheld by the army—asked deferment as agricultural workers.

Names of the nine men who failed to pass physical and mental tests were withheld.

band to the Bradford-Warren game Friday night, and the sum of $30 to supplement a record collection of the school board for the school listening program at Beatty.

Mr. Summers presented the other two members of the school music teaching staff, Carroll A. Fowler, who is returning to Warren to take charge of the high school chorus; and the junior high school chorus; also Howard Andersen, who will handle grade schools and the junior high seventh and eighth grade vocal work.

Mr. Fowler outlined some of the problems of his department and explained some of the things he hopes to accomplish, placing particular stress on the importance of the school listening program.

Mr. Andersen explained that his duties cover laying of the ground work in the grades for the later work of Mr. Summers and Mr. Fowler, and also emphasized the music appreciation program.

There was also discussion of the possibility of sponsoring a district school music festival in the spring and Mr. Summers explained to parents a band instrument rental program that might be worth their further attention.

Carefree Gene Bearden Is Undisputed Hero Of First Indians' Flag In 28 Years

Boston, Oct. 12—(AP)—Gene Bearden, a career rookie with ice water in his veins, is the undisputed hero of Cleveland's first World Series title since 1920.

"We owe it all to Bearden," said Manager Lou Boudreau after yesterday's thrilling 4-3 victory over the Boston Braves for the championship. "Give him all the credit. That goes back to the playoff game, too."

What else could the boss say? The handsome southpaw, conqueror of the Boston Red Sox in the pennant playoff game, had just sauntered from the bull pen to say the series finale.

Starter Bob Lemon was rocking and reeling from the fury of the attack of the Boston hitters, hungry for the winners' slice of the money from record crowds. The Braves had the bases full with one away in the last of the eighth, trailing 4-1. Then came Bearden.

Pinch Hitter Clint Conaster, the first man he faced, sent Thurman Tucker to deep center with a fly ball. Tommy Holmes tagged up and reached home, to make it 4-2.

Manager Billy Southworth brought in Phil Masi to hit for Bill Skelton and Masi hit the double that scored Torgerson. Now it was 4-3.

Coolly surveying the situation, Bearden went to work on Mike McCormick, one of the Braves' more dependable hitters in the series.

Series Share For Braves' Substitute

Boston, Oct. 13—(AP)—Marvin Rickert, the Boston Brave who played so brilliantly in left field during the World Series without any financial arrangements, today was certain to share in the player receipts.

Baseball Commissioner Albert B. Chandler said that "justice should be done" in Rickert's case. He said he will have to act unless the players solve the problem.

One solution appears to be for the Braves' players to get together and dip into their own individual shares. The Braves voted 33 shares with each share estimated at $4,652.51. The champion Indians, who voted 34 shares, will receive an estimated $6,772.05.

The odd part about the Rickert story is that the good looking 25-year-old left-handed batter feels very satisfied to have played in the series.

"It's been such a surprise playing in the series," Rickert said. "The Braves have been mighty good to me. I don't expect a thing."

However, Chandler appears very insistent that all World Series competitors should be paid for playing in the fall classic. This angle apparently was overlooked when Rickert received special permission to participate.

Alfred University Grid Coach Praises Work of Hal Brown

Alfred, N. Y.—Hal Brown, of Warren, work-horse of the Saxon grid machine last year, won special mention from Coach Alex Yunevich this week for his skillful offensive work against Clarkson in Alfred's 27-7 victory last Saturday.

The purple and gold mentor also had some kind words for the terrific line play of Sid Schweitzer at left guard. Sid, who captained the team against Clarkson, is also a senior at Alfred.

Most spectacular demonstration of the old Saxon punch came in the third period when he dashed 3 yards through a broken field or the Saxons' third touchdown, aided by good blocking, with the key man neatly taken out by Right Guard Ignatius Scott, Brown did the kind of "heads-up" running downfield that Yunevich likes to see.

Alex also showed obvious pleasure over the improvement in his team's blocking, something the Saxons have been lacking in this season. Movies of the Bucknell game, pointing up the weakness, led to concentration on blocking for two weeks of practice—and the work paid off handsomely in the Clarkson tilt.

In addition to punning, Brown converted for two points after and did most of the punting against Clarkson. He had one of his first long rests of the season when Yunevich tested several reserve backs during the final quarter.

Joe Hardy To Enter Warren Cage Squad In Penn-York Loop

Joe Hardy, coach of the Warren Bulldogs basketball team which he plans to enter in the All-American Professional Basketball League, said today he also will enter a second squad in a newly-formed circuit, the Penn-York League.

Preliminary arrangements for this league were made at a meeting in the Viking Hotel in Jamestown on Sunday.

In addition to the Warren squad, Hardy ported teams were expected from Jamestown, Kane, Westfield, Dunkirk, Gowanda and Olean. It is likely that an eighth club will be enrolled from Erie.

The two Warren semi-pro teams, coupled with high school competition throughout the district, gives promise of a very busy season ahead for basketball enthusiasts.

Deadly Weapon

By Wade Miller

Chapter 1

CLAPP sat down ponderously on the chair. "Well, Mr. James," he said, "you seem to have distinguished yourself in our behalf tonight."

"It seemed the thing to do," the smaller man replied. "Do I get a merit badge?" He lit more cigarettes for the redhead and himself. Clapp pulled out a pipe and began preparing it for use.

"Naturally," he considered, "I should be very grateful. However, being of a suspicious nature, I gonna reserve our city's thanks for a while. What's your angle, Mr. James?"

"No angle, Mr. Clapp," Walter James winked at him. "I acted within my rights as a citizen."

"Police background?"

"Taught functional law three years at the Cincinnati police school."

Clapp waved at the remaining members of the audience by the runway, lined up to talk to the elderly detective. "You pull a gun on those other citizens?"

"No."

"You got a gun?"

"Of course."

"The brethren down there see it?"

"My coat was unbuttoned. Maybe some of them saw it."

"Suppose I see it?" Clapp held out a big hand. From far under his left lapel, Walter James extracted a pistol and handed it to him. It was a .38 on a .32 frame. The shells showed shiny brass caps in every chamber.

"Got a license for this?"

"Not here—Atlanta."

"Oh," Clapp's heavy eyebrows pushed up. "A stranger in town. You like our little city?"

Walter James' eyes flicked toward the second seat last row, center section. His lower lip twitched. "You put on this show every Saturday night?"

Around the edge of his tight collar, Clapp flushed. "How long you been here?"

"Thursday morning, nine o'clock. Serva Apartments, 3B, Talbot 11211. How about a receipt for that gun?"

Chapter 2

"It's a long story," said Walter James. "Us James's—we never forget a grudge."

"Like me," said Clapp. He grimaced thoughtfully. "Oh, well—we'll come back to that question later." He eyed the girl. "You didn't notice anything about who ever it was moved in and out of this house?"

"I'm not even sure there was anybody, just that there was."

"You'll help us a lot if you keep thinking, Miss Gilbert."

Laura Gilbert said, "I'm sorry I can't remember, Mr. Clapp. I just wasn't paying any attention. This is my first time in a place like this."

"Why does there have to be somebody in that aisle seat?" Walter James asked quietly.

Clapp said, "You know better than to ask that. The crowd is in front of the stage, and it would have to be sitting down. Theoretically, the young lady here could have done it with a backhand. If somebody sat to the Philipino's right, that person could have done it with a lunge stroke. The people in front of the stage have done it without being noticed."

"You keep ignoring suicide," said Walter James.

"Not the right circumstances and no prints on the tilt. As a professional, Clapp looked thoughtful. "I don't know what you would appreciate the murder weapon. It's a store job, cheap, tailored down for a job like this. Thin blade to go in quick, short blade that would make sure of a medium-size or small person, and a two-inch guard to avoid mess. The tilt was originally a little longer than it is now—it's been cut off so it wouldn't show much. I guess, Yeah, I'd say the knife was ideal for killing a small man, quickly, and neatly. In the dark, it could have been made for you, Mr. James."

Walter James dropped his cigarette. He groped for it with his foot, ground it out. When he looked at Clapp, he was smiling naively. "I've only been in town three days and I've had no trouble with my landlady."

Felix stuck his head through the part in the main drape. "Are you coming up here, Austin, or shall I send them home?"

Clapp waved at him. "Coming right away," he called.

"Okay, they're getting restless," Felix withdrew his sleek head. Clapp looked at Walter James and the girl. "You might as well come along. I want to talk to you a little more." Walter James helped the girl to her feet. Clapp led the way down the aisle, talking over his shoulder as he went.

"Answer me this, Mr. James—what was that card doing in the Philipino's pocket?"

"You mean half a card," said Walter James.

"Are they always this confusing?" Laura Gilbert asked. "Murders, I mean."

Walter James said, "No, most of them are pretty simple. Correct me if I'm wrong, Clapp, but the ones I've run up against are usually about as hard to see through as a piece of glass. Just find the motive. That's what the Lieutenant here is trying to do right now."

Clapp mounted the wooden steps to the stage. "That's right."

CLAPP parted the heavy curtain, and the three of them eased through the opening onto the main stage. The clamor of voices stopped abruptly as if cut off by a knife. The principals and ensemble of the Grand Theater were lounging about, waiting for the Dutch mill scenery of the finale. The cast had changed into street clothes.

A tall man in a trench coat got up from his seat on the mill steps. "Look, Lieutenant, I don't even know the guy from Adam—how about me going home?"

Clapp looked at Felix Danbury. "That's Danbury, Host. The comic. He's been belly-aching ever since I got here."

Host nodded his thin face at Clapp. "How about it?"

Clapp said, "How come you didn't know Soles, Host? Or don't you pal around with the hired help?"

Greiss interjected nervously, "I can explain. Lieutenant, I app shut him off by turning his back on the pudgy manager. Host smiled with one corner of his mouth. "What he was going to say is that I'm new around here."

"No," agreed the older man. "But take a look at this. He handed a small, flat box to Clapp. The big man opened it and sat staring at the brownish powder inside. He exchanged glances with Jim.

"Any prints?"

"None except his own. Some for his seat and the arm to his right. Everything on the right-hand seat is pretty badly smudged."

Clapp sighed. "You might know."

"Nothing much in his pockets except a couple pictures of that blonde dancer. No great amount of money, some jewelry and a flashy knife. Looks unused except maybe for picking teeth."

"Anything else?"

Jim picked up the sport coat and ran his fingers into the pockets. "I didn't look in all of the pockets. I got excited when I found that box. Wait a minute, here's something." He pulled out his hand, a small square of white between his fingers. "What do you make of this, Austin?"

Clapp took the strip of paper gingerly by the edges. "Looks like half a business card to me." He held it up to the light and Walter James looked at it over his shoulder. The printed side read:

IPACE, M.D.
kristist
Hours
9-4

Clapp turned the card over. On the back something had been scribbled in pencil. There were three lines of interrupted writing.

I see
ex tra
regu

Clapp frowned at it. The man waited him silently. Laura Gilbert said in a small voice, "Does it help any?" The question broke the tension. Clapp put the torn card carefully into his coat pocket and grinned at the serious girl.

"It brings up a lot more questions," he admitted. He turned on Walter James suddenly. "Why did you kill him, Mr. James?"

Cafeteria At Youngsville Is Busy Place

Youngsville, Oct. 12—At last week's meeting of the board of education, a report from the cafeteria showed that with the new type of lunches being served there is a large increase in the number of pupils patronizing the cafeteria. Since the opening of school, 1,750 of the full lunches have been served and 562 milk-lunches which are usually used in connection with sandwiches and other food brought from home. The average attendance for lunches at the cafeteria is about 150 a day and, in addition, 100 bottles of milk are used in the grades.

A committee of parents of first grade pupils was present at this meeting and voiced disapproval of the half-day longer sessions now in use because of the larger enrollment in the first grade. There are now two first grade teachers, Mrs. Minnie Hanson has one group, which she teaches through the morning hours, and Mrs. Russell Smith has another group in the afternoon in the same room.

Some suggestions were made, including use of a room in the Methodist church as a school room. Through the school board, architects are to be contacted with a view to seeing what can be done in the way of additional rooms added to the rear of the grade building to meet future needs as well as the present need.
